

Merry Christmas

Merry Christmas & Wishes for a Prosperous 2013 with YTB from Juliet in Madagascar, Africa !!!

Dear j,

I just wanted to wish you all a Wonderful Holiday Season and look forward to YOU having financial success with YTB in 2013, with all the Great New improvements currently under way.

I am on an Incredible Vacation in Madagascar, a unique island off the Western coast of Africa, doing what most of us Love to do - travel the world !

The people here are so friendly - the kids LOVE getting their pictures taken and really "ham it up" for the cameras, and the food here is DIVINE ! Before independence in 1960, Madagascar was a French colony, and they have taken the French cuisine & mixed it with their own "Malagasy" style to come up with just incredible meals at ridiculously cheap prices.

My son convinced me to take a hiking/trekking/camping trip through one of the National Parks - Parc National D'Angringitra, where we scaled the highest mountain peak in the country accessible by foot, named Bobby's Pic - it was Breathtakingly Beautiful, and the camping spots were located by cold, clear mountain streams every night, where the porters set up tents and cooked 4 course dinners over wood fires and had us try a local drink with rum, ginger and orange juice. The climb up was difficult and I got a cardio work-out like never before, but it was the coming down that just about Killed me !!! It took 2 days for me to be able to walk normally after we got down.

We then went on the Parc National Isalo, hiking through a completely different terrain - it looked a lot like the Grand Canyon in AZ, with wild rock formations and pinnacles and a desert-like ecosystem, with waterfalls to stand under and blue and black natural pools to jump in to cool off along the course of the trails The lemurs are cute little mammals, unique to Madagascar, that leap from tree to tree in family groups.

For Christmas we took a speedboat over to Anakao, a Truly Spectacular strip of powder white sand beach, fronting onto the turquoise blue waters of the barrier reef that runs up the southwest side of the country. We stayed in cute little bungalows with the front porch overlooking the sea, and went out on Christmas day to scuba dive on the reef - they had us diving through tunnels and "chimneys" in the reef, and it was a TRUE test of overcoming claustrophobia ! But I guess overcoming our fears - whether they be personal or in our YTB businesses - is necessary for us to grow and become better and stronger.

Why don't you commit to trying something New in your YTB business this year - something you might be scared of doing - something outside your "comfort zone" - something you may be afraid of trying...
But try it, overcome the fear of failure, and grow from it !

I MADE IT TO THE TOP !!!!!

At this point, I was still wondering if I would make it up the mountain.....

When we arrived at the bottom, these little girls from the village came to sell us some fresh mangoes from the tree in their yard and then sang & danced - they were all so happy !

...headed up the canyon in Parc National de Isalo - getting in shape for the work we have to do in YTB in 2013 !!!

A family of Ring-tailed lemurs basking in the sun in a private reserve in the south.

Madagascar is like the "Galapagos" of Africa with all kinds of animals, plants and trees that are not found anywhere else in the world.

This trip has already been a "life experience", and we're not done yet !!!

While I have been "discovering" Madagascar, I have heard that a few Directors decided to throw their hat in with another company...

I am sad they made that decision and decided to abandon us - YTB, Coach, their downlines, and the people who believed in them when they sold the YTB dream. And we know from experience how every top leader who has made a move has never again had the success they did with YTB. Just don't let your YTB hopes & dreams be destroyed by someone who made a financial decision to benefit their own family.

I just want all of You, my YTB Family, to know...that I am 100% COMMITTED to YTB, to Coach Tomer, and to each one of you that had a dream with your YTB business.

It does not matter what any other company tries to offer me, in bonuses, corporate positions, or any other type of bribe, I am not going anywhere !!!

We started something great here & I plan to be here to see it through with you, starting with a Great year in 2013 !!!

Sincerely - Your Partner in Success through YTB,

PS If you are in the vicinity, don't miss the Super Saturday in ATL this weekend with Coach Tomer, Scott Tomer, Chris Cokley, Lucretia Daniel, Shavett Daniels, and the rest of the Atlanta Leadership team

And I hope to see you at our NYC Super Sat on Jan 19th with all the NYC leaders & NE Directors.
